

MOTHER /SON MUCK

“I am Dustin’s stove stealing Mother he never had”

This is an ingenious idea cleverly camouflaged by a con. Every muck consists of two parts: the bringing in of the held out card and the chopping out of the bad card. Neither part is very difficult; however, when combined mucking becomes much more difficult. The beauty of this muck is that each cheater does one part of the muck.

The con game begins as an elderly, well-dressed woman walks up to a busy Blackjack game. She’s new to the game. After making a large bet, she picks up her two cards, looks at them, and places them face down on the table away from her bet. She then turns to her son who accompanies her to the game. He is not paying attention to her or the game. She whispers something in his ear. He turns her two cards face up...a Blackjack. He explains to her that players must turn their cards face up if they get a Blackjack. “Mother” pretends to be a little put off by her son’s condescending voice and immediately picks up her winnings, and both leave the table.

The Mother/Son Mucked Revealed

Don't fuck with me, asswipe

“Mother” is a jammed up mechanic that would steal a hot stove. This bitch has been taking off toilets before running water. Mother chopped out the bad card leaving one card on the table. Immediately the other cheater mucked in the Ace and turned both cards face up.

If mother doesn’t receive a ten or paint, she puts a cap in the dealer’s head. She’s one mean bitch! Actually, the cheaters wait until she’s dealt a ten or paint. It’s rare not to be dealt a ten or paint within three hands. The cheaters only need one ten or paint to get it on. And that’s a little ruse known as the Mother/Son Muck.